

Funds of The Community Foundation*

There are approximately 1,000 individually named funds at The Community Foundation. The types of funds that can be established — over the course of one's lifetime and/or through one's estate — are flexible in their design to provide something for everyone. Fifty-one new funds were established at The Foundation in 2020, including those with our affiliate the Valley Community Foundation and several designated funds from charitable gift annuities. We thank our donors for their generosity and community spirit.

*As of December 31, 2020; new funds established in 2020 are highlighted in color.

Church of the Redeemer Community Legacy Fund

Est. 2020 by Church of the Redeemer congregation.

The Church of the Redeemer Community Legacy Fund is the final act of the Church of the Redeemer in New Haven, which was established in New Haven in 1838 as a Congregational Church for Christian worship. Originally located on Chapel Street, the Church was last located at the corner of Whitney Avenue and Cold Spring Street in New Haven until it dispersed in 2018 to neighboring congregations after its members announced they would put the church property on the market. The three main congregations to receive transplanted members are Dixwell Avenue Congregational United Church of Christ, First Presbyterian Church of New Haven and Spring Glen Church, UCC in Hamden.

The Fund is a broad preference fund to continue, in perpetuity, the church's nearly 200 year history of engaging in a wide range of community service. It will be used as most needed to: promote social justice, human and civil rights, criminal justice reform, and support for immigrants; provide access to basic human needs, including but not limited to affordable housing, health, education, and food security. Priority will be given to groups or organizations that promote and embody the values of connecting, relating, and belonging in these relationships, and seek to minimize or eliminate historical patterns of dividing, controlling, and exploiting.

One Generous Couple.
Thirteen New Funds.

Philanthropy was an integral part of Hal and Maureen Bornstein’s lives. Hal’s philosophy was, “There are no pockets in caskets. You can’t take the money with you.”

Together the couple contributed to numerous organizations in the community by setting up multiple charitable gift annuities (CGAs) during their life together. Hal established several more after Maureen’s passing. CGAs appealed to the Bornsteins because through CGAs, the donor receives income from the gift that eventually starts a fund for a favorite organization. “It’s a win-win,” said Hal.

In his eulogy of Maureen, Hal described the shared value system which guided their lives and giving.

“We had discovered that our value systems were identical and this, combined with our intense love which permeated every day we shared together, made for a magnificent marriage. We went everywhere together. When you saw one of us, you saw the other.” Their togetherness also extended to volunteerism, from putting on parties for kids in homeless shelters to organizing clothing drives.

Hal died in 2020 leaving a home filled with photos of Maureen and their four sons. Also on display was a spider plant — a reminder of his passion for growing the plants that he nurtured and donated to charities. His thoughtfulness was so legendary he eventually became known as “The Spiderman.”

Upon Hal’s passing, the couple’s twenty CGA’s became new permanent funds or were added to existing funds at The Foundation, each benefiting local nonprofits serving the community they so loved.

Center for Psychology & Culture Fund

Est. 2020 by Urban Community Alliance Inc. and Dr. Maysa Akbar.

When Maysa Akbar, PhD envisions the Center for Psychology & Culture in the coming years, she pictures a think tank that draws community leaders from around the country and the world to work on issues around the interactions between racial inequalities, racism and mental health "and to look at it in a more profound way."

In 2020, Dr. Akbar, founder of Integrated Wellness Group, assistant clinical professor at Yale University's School of Medicine and a member of The Foundation and the Urban Alliance Inc. boards and Shirley Ellis-West, executive director of the Urban Community Alliance Inc., established the Center for Psychology and Culture Fund at The Community Foundation. They were able to do so thanks to a bequest from the estate of Helen W.M. Brackett.

The Center for Psychology and Culture, which is currently affiliated with the Urban Community Alliance Inc. in New Haven, will create racial equity policy, road maps and frameworks for others to use according to Dr. Akbar, who is also Chief Diversity Officer at the American Psychological Association.

The Center will address how communities of color are impacted by racial inequities and "how racism, oppression and discrimination impact the emotional and mental well-being of the person," Dr. Akbar said. "Historically those two things have not been connected. We discuss oppressive systems in isolation from how it impacts the people most affected."

Sharon M. Clemons “Butterflies” Fund

Est. 2020 by Erik Clemons.

Sharon and Erik Clemons shared a love that few dream of achieving. Over their thirty years together, they cultivated the closest of friendships rooted in mutual respect and understanding. Together they raised four beautiful daughters, who Sharon called their “Butterflies.” It is these “Butterflies” that inspired the name of the Fund created in 2020 to memorialize Sharon’s life after her passing on November 3, 2020.

Those who knew Sharon knew she was a hard working, skilled Master Stylist and award winning entrepreneur with a heart of gold.

Prior to her passing, Sharon had skillfully crafted a career in the hair and beauty industry, putting her talents and ministering presence to great use. In 2005, she opened Sharon Joy Salon in New Haven with her sister, Joy, who recalls the pair had hopes of one day opening up an Academy of beauty — a place where young women could tap into what they loved.

Sharon worked tirelessly to serve as a role model for teens and justice-involved (previously incarcerated) women, giving countless hours to mentor them.

Her sister remembers that they would go to the halfway house and teach the little things that many take for granted — basic grooming, how to care for yourself, proper attire to wear for job interviews.

Sharon also started an annual Christmas Give Back to assist single mothers with holiday shopping for their children. She was truly in tune to the needs of people, endeavoring once a month to be a true blessing to someone donating her time to the hair styling needs of families with deceased loved ones.

Sharon instilled in her daughters the importance of education, kindness to others and being beautiful inside and out. She was overjoyed at becoming a grandmother and treasured her time with her granddaughter.

The Sharon M. Clemons “Butterflies” Fund will make grants that honor Sharon’s life as an accomplished and compassionate human being, beloved wife and mother of four bright young women. The initial emphasis of the Fund will be to recommend grants that support scholarships for African American young women at the alma maters of Sharon’s daughters: Smith College, Tuskegee University, Hampton University and Spelman College.

William S. & Deborah M. Colwell Fund
Est. 2020 by William S. & Deborah M. Colwell.

When Will Colwell joined the board of directors of a local private foundation, he needed to do some homework on area nonprofits to assess their grant eligibility and impact. He and his wife Debbie decided they would visit nonprofits all over Greater New Haven together, increasingly learning about the needs in the community and the work being done to improve people’s lives.

“I offered a different insight,” said Debbie, who began volunteering back in 1979 with the Junior League of Greater New Haven and “learned a lot about what the community needed, what volunteer opportunities there were to give back to people who needed it most.”

They found themselves very moved by the stories of women sheltering at Life Haven, a place for female domestic violence survivors and their children. “It really opened my eyes to a part of the world that I had not been very familiar with,” said Will, a principal of the law firm Parrett, Porto, Parese & Colwell PC.

Their initial encounters with Life Haven and St. Martin de Porres Academy had a profound effect on the couple, who have been giving and volunteering locally for more than four decades.

The Colwell’s love for the community and desire to make a meaningful impact grew when Will started a seven-year term on The Community Foundation for Greater New Haven’s Board in 2011, serving as Chair for 2015-16.

In 2020, the couple used a Qualified Charitable Deduction from their IRA to create a designated fund at The Foundation that will support St. Martin de Porres Academy, New Reach, Clifford Beers Clinic, Leadership, Education and Athletics in Partnership Inc. (LEAP), EMERGE and other charities.

Mario Correa Fund

Est. 2020 by Juan Sargeant and Joseph Wilson.

Mario Correa was never without a smile. Father, mentor, and friend to all who knew him, Mario was widely known for his kindness and his willingness to help anyone with anything. Whatever challenge came his way, Mario would say, “No matter what, we give a smile.”

Mario’s younger brother, Juan Sargeant, remembers Mario as one of the most supportive, kind and caring people in his life. Growing up, Mario cared for Juan. He taught Juan how to read and looked out for him in the neighborhood. He would stand up to bullies for Juan and taught Juan how to stand up for himself. Most importantly, Mario took the time to make sure that Juan knew he was loved.

Mario served the same role for his own children, his large extended family and many others in the community. Dedicated and hardworking, he was a pillar in his community. Mario could fix anything and was always ready to lend a hand to someone in need. Mario had the ability to care about the needs of neighbors, and even strangers, as much as he did about the needs of his family.

In loving memory of Mario, Juan and his husband, Joe Wilson, established the Mario Correa Memorial Fund to help students address barriers in attaining a college degree, including ancillary expenses such as the costs for books, living expenses, transportation and other supports as needed.

The Greater New Haven COVID-19 Community Fund

Est. 2020 by The Community Foundation for Greater New Haven in partnership with the United Way of Greater New Haven

The Greater New Haven COVID-19 Community Fund was established on March 20, 2020 by The Community Foundation for Greater New Haven in partnership with the United Way of Greater New Haven as a community-wide effort to raise money to help Greater New Haven’s nonprofit organizations and the thousands of people in our region they serve affected by COVID. The two institutions are working together in promoting the fund to donors and in decision-making as to grants from the fund.

Total dollars distributed from the COVID-19 Community Fund between March 2020 and April 2021 were $4.4 million. Grants made at the height of the pandemic were largely directed toward individuals most disproportionately impacted by COVID, including many within communities of color, seniors and low-income and high risk populations.

The Boys and Girls Club Learning Hub, Higher Heights Virtual Academy and Junta for Progressive Action’s Neighborhood Place were among several programs with learning, tutoring and mentoring services for children and youth that were recently supported by the Fund.

A grant to the Arts Council of Greater New Haven supported the Greater New Haven Creative Sector Relief Fund, which distributes financial assistance to low-income individual creatives and small-budget arts institutions whose incomes vanished when venues closed during quarantine.

CT Hospice in Branford created accessible free vaccine clinics, distributing more than 1,000 vaccines to a primarily elderly population. It collaborated with the East Haven Health District to help increase vaccination rates among East Haven residents, and met people with mobility impairments in their cars.

Other grants to nonprofits supported the purchase of personal protective equipment (PPE) for nonprofit staff and volunteers, food and other basic needs, assistance with rent and utility bills and access to vaccines.

The Christopher and Mary Hamilton Fund of The Community Foundation for Greater New Haven

Est. 2020 by Dr. Cheryl Hamilton.

The Christopher and Mary Hamilton Fund of The Community Foundation for Greater New Haven was established by retired OBGYN physician Dr. Cheryl Hamilton, in memory of her parents. Its purpose is to help minority students attend college without having the worry of accruing large amounts of student debt.

Growing up in the projects of New York City's Lower East Side, Dr. Hamilton knew her parents were unable to pay for her college and medical school education. Her dad worked at Bellevue Hospital in the dietary department, where he prepared the meals that were eaten by hospital patients. Her mother first worked as a housekeeper, and later at Cornell in the Biology Department sterilizing equipment.

The creation of the fund occurred over time, said Dr. Hamilton. It was inspired, in part, by her brother, Chris Hamilton Jr, who worked at Hunter College in the Biology Department. While there, he saw firsthand how many students were challenged with the overwhelming costs that come with attending a four-year university and created the Black Faculty, Staff and Alumni Resource Exchange. When he retired in the 1990s, however, so did his fund.

Dr. Hamilton was fortunate to receive many scholarships and grants that made paying for college a bit easier and hopes that her fund will do the same for others. Her ultimate goal is to keep the cycle going, so that the students that she is able to help now, will in turn someday help the next generation pay for their college.

Keil Memorial Fund

Est. 2020 by Susan Keil White.

Susan Keil White first got the idea to create a Community Foundation fund after she learned from a friend that the Fund for Women & Girls began with a $10,000 gift. “My ears perked right up,” she said.

She had received an inheritance after her parents passed away and, as part of her Christian faith, she planned to tithe. She wanted to use some of that gift to create the Keil Memorial Fund to honor her parents, lifelong volunteers and advocates for others — to create a Fund that will focus in part on the fight against human trafficking and the exploitation of women. Some people take decades to determine a cause they want to stand up for, but White knew at 21 that cause would be hers.

She became aware of the issue when teaching in an exchange program in Japan. She was out on a date one evening and her date’s boss accompanied them and surrounded himself with very young women who appeared to be escorts. When White spoke with them, they told her they were from the Philippines and sending money home to their families. “It was clear they were being exploited,” she says.

That moment stayed with her and when she later read a series of news stories about human trafficking, she began volunteering with a nonprofit that worked with women who had been exploited. A former practicing attorney in New York and Texas, she lives in Hamden with her husband and daughters, and she continues to work to solve issues around human trafficking, the trauma caused by it and ways to help women move forward.

“There’s a lot of work to be done,” White says. “But there are many smart people in the fight against human trafficking. What they really need is money to fight it and I want to help.”

Sid and Donna Levine Fund

Est. 2020 by Sid and Donna Levine.

Donna and Sid Levine are no strangers to philanthropy and live by the Jewish motto of “Tikkun olam,” which translates to “Improve the World.”

Their first act to create a permanent source of support for something important to them was in 2000, when they created a fund in blessed memory of their late son Ari at The Jewish Foundation of Greater New Haven (JFGNH) to support Congregation Beth El-Keser Israel (BEKI). BEKI also received funding from the Levines to create a children’s library bearing Ari’s name. Two more permanent funds were established at JFGNH by the Levines. One to provide food assistance for residents at The Towers, a senior living community in the Jewish tradition located in downtown New Haven, and the other a Perpetual Annual Campaign Endowment (PACE) Fund.

A fourth endowment was established at The University of Connecticut to provide scholarships to underprivileged youth — particularly meaningful for the pair who grew up in working class households and received scholarships themselves.

In 2020, the Levines were deeply moved by the impact of COVID in their local community, especially for the overwhelming need for food within the New Haven area. They chose to ‘improve the world’ by establishing a permanently endowed donor advised fund at The Community Foundation. A donor advised fund was attractive to Sid and Donna because of the ability to name their children as successor-advisors to carry on the family’s philanthropic legacy after their deaths.

The Levines intend to recommend grants that support programs providing the essentials, such as food, as well as programs that help people with disabilities, the elderly and the environment.

Victor I. Moraru Memorial Fund

Est. 2020 by Ioana Barac and Dr. Ion I. Moraru.

Victor Moraru’s complex personality drew roots from two different cultures: the Romanian one, inherited from his parents, and his native one, American. On both sides of the ocean he will be remembered for his brilliant mind, his free spirit, unapologetic humor and his capacity for unconditional love thanks to the fund that was established in 2020 through the collective generosity of Victor’s family and friends including his parents Ioana Barac and Dr. Ion I. Moraru.

Victor had an inborn restlessness and yearning for comprehending the universe and his place in it which led him to constantly search for excitement and meaning in multiple ways.

Funny, bright and opinionated, Victor lived and loved on his own terms. He unabashedly chose public school over private school and invested only in the subjects and activities that interested him. He valued spiritual and emotional honesty and disdained labels and judgments.

Victor loved the world with its civilizations, mountains and oceans. But first and foremost, he cherished connection. He occasioned long, passionate conversations, and found great meaning in being with his young and old friends in times of fun and in times of need. He built deep, lasting bonds with highly diverse groups and individuals. Open to people and experiences, he discovered the undeniable impact of economic hardship, mental health issues and discrimination on those around him.

David P. O’Sullivan Fund

Est. 2020 by David P. O’Sullivan.

Throughout most of his working life, David P. O’Sullivan was in the business of asking for donations — for vegetables and fruits, money and bread — anything to keep New Haven’s Community Soup Kitchen feeding the many people it cared for.

With two million meals served across 40 years, seven as a volunteer and 33 as executive director, O’Sullivan was continually moved by the people he served and by the community’s generosity.

After he received an inheritance from his aunt, Patricia Barbara O’Sullivan Lucey, a legendary golfer who won many Connecticut and New England Women’s Amateur Championships, he established the David P. O’Sullivan Fund at The Community Foundation. “One of the things that struck me was that I’d been asking for money throughout my career, and I thought ‘wouldn’t it be neat to be able to give something.’ That was my motivation,” he said.

He had seen The Foundation’s impact firsthand, as the Community Soup Kitchen received Foundation grants and “donations from a great many family funds similar to mine, only older and more established,” he said. “I like the Fund’s permanence and the flexibility to be able to give to different causes.”

His first donation will go to the Catholic Archbishop’s Annual Appeal as “they were a long source of support for Community Soup Kitchen, and it’s a way to distribute more money to more groups.”

He is proud to be able to “honor my aunt and to do something unique that I don’t believe anyone else in our family has done,” he said. “I feel very lucky to leave a legacy like this and to use this gift to help others.”

The Appel-Eitzer Family Fund

Est. 2020 by Elizabeth Appel and Brian Eitzer.

After living and working in the Greater New Haven area for over three decades, both Liz Appel and Brian Eitzer felt that they were at a stage in their lives where they were finally able to help others, and give back to the community that has given them so much.

Choosing to establish a fund at The Community Foundation seemed like a perfect fit; the couple have confidence in The Foundation because they know people who also have funds there. In addition, they know The Community Foundation supports a mix of different charities and causes, from museums to basic needs providers, to the environment, the arts and more.

Through the Appel-Eitzer Fund, Liz and Brian hope to help others in their community rise up.They also want grants from their Fund to address the most pressing needs and opportunities of the moment.

“We don’t view our fund as a legacy for ourselves, but rather a tool for creating success within the community right now,” said the couple.
